The Proprietor assigns and transfers to Come to Sweden the exclusive right to use the artwork during poster exhibition that the company arranges.

2.3 Right to produce and publish reprints

Come to Sweden is within its business activities entitled to produce reprints of the artwork and to publish it in whatever format and on whatever material. Come to Sweden's business activities include (amongst other) publishing of artworks as posters and in books as well as printing of artworks on all kinds of products, including without limitation post cards, calendars and trays. Come to Sweden is entitled to in its discretion decide which products fit into its business activities as well as on which types of products the artwork is printed. Come to Sweden provides the Proprietor with at least one sample of each product in which the artwork has been used.

Come to Sweden's exclusive right to the artwork includes the right to use it in Come to Sweden's own marketing.

Come to Sweden's exclusive right means that the proprietor during the term of this agreement does not have any right to transfer or assign any right of use of the artwork to any third party, nor to itself produce or publish the artwork to the extent Come to Sweden has been granted exclusivity under this agreement. Come to Sweden's exclusive right does, however, not prevent the proprietor from granting a third party the right to publish the artwork in a specific book, magazine or a personal portfolio or as marketing on its own homepage.

Come to Sweden undertakes to whenever possible include the name of the proprietor on every product and poster on which the artwork has been included in accordance with what is customary in the industry. Come to Sweden may also in its discretion mention the name of the proprietor in connection with marketing of the exhibition and the products.

Come to Sweden pays to the proprietor a royalty equalling 7.5% of the sales proceeds from the products in which the artwork has been included. The sales proceeds are calculated on the basis of the tax free wholesale price.

Come to Sweden undertakes to annually in January provide the proprietor with a calculation of the sales of products including the artwork in the preceding year. On the basis of said calculation Come to Sweden pays the proprietor the annual royalty on or before 31 January.

It is for the avoidance of doubt acknowledged and agreed that the proprietor shall not be entitled to any minimum compensation for the transfer and assignment of the right of use under this agreement. Come to Sweden may in its discretion decide whether and, if so, when products including the artwork are produced as well as the production volume.

3.2 The proprietor's right to free samples

As an additional compensation for the transfer and assignment of the exclusive right Come to Sweden always provides the proprietor, if the proprietor so wishes, with 2-5 products (depending on the value) which include the artwork. If post cards are printed Come to Sweden provides the proprietor with 30 cards. These free samples may not be used for commercial purposes.

Come to Sweden sends the products to the address the proprietor last has notified it of at the latest one month after the products have been released for sale.

4 Intellectual property right infringements

The proprietor confirms that the artwork and the right of use assigned and transferred under this agreement to the best of the proprietor's knowledge do not infringe any third party's intellectual property right(s).

Provided that Come to Sweden uses the artwork in accordance with this agreement the proprietor is liable for any infringement of any third party's intellectual property right that the artwork or Come to Sweden's right of use thereof may constitute. If the artwork or the assigned and transferred right of use infringes a third party's intellectual property right(s), each party is entitled to cancel this agreement with immediate effect to the extent it concerns such infringement. Come to Sweden is also entitled to cancel this agreement in whole or in part with immediate effect if the artwork or the assigned and transferred right of use infringes a legal person's intellectual property right(s).

If a private person initiates court proceedings against Come to Sweden concerning infringement of intellectual property rights, the proprietor is liable for all necessary costs for defending Come to Sweden as well as any damage or other compensation that Come to Sweden shall pay to a third party proprietor.

If a third party infringes against the rights that under this agreement are assigned and transferred to Come to Sweden, Come to Sweden may in its discretion, but is not obliged to, at its own cost initiate legal proceedings against the infringer. The proprietor undertakes to give all required information and required powers of attorney and if necessary in other ways help and support Come to Sweden in pursuing the legal proceedings. If Come to Sweden or the proprietor according to the Finnish act on copy rights is entitled to compensation for the use of the artwork and/or any other compensation or damage due to the infringement in the rights covered by this agreement, such compensation shall be divided equally between the proprietor and Come to Sweden. The costs incurred by Come to Sweden or the proprietor due to pursuing the legal proceedings and which the proprietor is not liable to indemnify, shall be reduced from the compensation before the compensation is divided between the proprietor and Come to Sweden.
